

14 March, 2013

Say no to cheap friends with Invite A Friend™

Here at Ticketek we understand the excitement of buying tickets to an event. We also understand that along with the excitement comes the flood of emails, Facebook messages, texts & calls from friends asking you to buy a ticket for them. It always follows with the "I'll fix you up with the cash later" - or even the convincing "Send me your bank details now" line. And so, in the spirit of friendship, you buy the tickets.

Then, after the awesome night out at the gig/game/show, you realise the pal you got that extra ticket for has dropped off the radar - along with the cash they owed you.

Which got us thinking... What if the awesome friends who are always buying the extra ticket could actually say no to cheap friends? And still get the kudos of organising the posse at no cost?

So in the spirit of saying no to cheap friends, we've launched Invite A Friend™.

Invite A Friend™ is a simple solution to organise tickets for a group of friends without having to pay for everyone's tickets upfront. While buying yours, you can reserve extra tickets for your friends, and let them know via Facebook. And for seated events the reserved tickets will be right next to yours. Simple!

Visit www.ticketek.com.au/inviteafriend to find out more.